

Prior to signing with Devrite, we met with several builders, but something just didn't feel right with them. We immediately felt very comfortable discussing our build with Jay and Ron at our very first meeting. Unlike some of the other builders we had met, Ron and Jay came across as very genuine and down to earth people, which was a very good sign to us.

We were invited to view some houses that Devrite had already handed over, and were already occupied by their owners. It was no surprise to us that the builds were of a very high standard and that Devrite took great pride in their work, as Ron's attention to detail and passion were already very evident to us. But it was the fact that the owners would gladly talk and walk us through their houses that had already been completed over a year ago that surprised us. It was obvious that they were very happy with Devrite and considered Ron and Jay to be more as their friends than their builder. This was the relationship we wanted with our builder. Someone we trusted as we would our friends.

Over the course of the build, everything went smoothly, and any problems were resolved painlessly. Communication was excellent as Ron was always available to answer any of our queries and he always explained all available options to us. I don't actually think he sleeps, or he has somehow cloned himself, as he will literally answer your emails at 3am in the morning 10minutes after you have sent it!

Devrite explained that they only worked with a small pool of tradespeople that they know produce a certain quality of work that they expected. On-site this was evident, and the quality of the workmanship and finish are indeed very highly satisfactory. Ron is very detail oriented, and everything has been engineered and built to withstand the test of time with no shortcuts taken whatsoever.

Apart from any changes at our request, everything was within budget with no hidden surprises. Not once did we feel like we were overcharged for any variations, as everything was clearly itemised, and more importantly very reasonable. We had some very specific details we wanted implemented and Devrite very happily worked with us to realise them.

We couldn't recommend Devrite highly enough to anyone looking to build a new house. We are glad we made the right choice with Devrite, and we are extremely happy and comfortable in our new home. If we were to build another house we would definitely choose Devrite again.

Now that the build is over, Devrite will no longer be our builder, but I am glad to say we have made two good friends Ron and Jay
